Five Canyon Eagles Chosen for District 1-AA Dream Team

Five members of Canyon High School's District 1-AA co-champion football team have been named to the all-district squads, it was announced this week by Coach Bill Davis.

One of the gridders, Jerry Richardson, was picked as the outstanding back in the district by rival coaches. A coach may not nominate one of his players for an all-district honor.

An offensive and a defensive team was chosen by the coaches, with Richardson being elected for both squads.

Triplett on Team

On the offensive team with Richardson was Bill Triplett, 145-pound senior guard, considered by many as one of the finest blockers in this area.

Eagles on the defensive team besides Richardson were Jack Breitling at a tackle slot, and Chuck Nester and John Wear at corner linebacker positions. Richardson got the nod as a defensive halfback.

Breitling, an Eagle tri-captain, is a 165-pound senior, while Nester, also a tri-captain, is a 150-pound senior offensive fullback, and John Wear is a 155-pound senior offensive end.

Richardson, an all-district and all-region selection last year, is a 155-pound senior quarterback. He was near the top in Eagle statistics all season.

During regular season play, he gained 625 yards rushing with 110 carries for a 5.7 yards per try average. He was second in the scoring department with 64 points on 10 touchdowns and four points after touchdown.

The slender field general probably is among the leaders in the state as a defensive halfback. He intercepted eight enemy aerials during the season and broke up many more passing attempts.

Swiped 13 Passes

Richardson's teammates chipped in with five more swipes to give the Eagles 13 interceptions during the year. Opponents attempted 66 passes, and completed only 22.

Although the Eagles weren't known primarily for their passing, they lofted 102 aerials and completed 40. Of these, Richardson tossed 93 and completed 38 for a respectable .408 tossing average. In all, Richardson passed for 330 yards.

Offensive Team

Named by the coaches to the offensive dream team were:

Ends—Hal Ratcliff of Dimmitt and Gary Goez of Friona.

Tackles—Jack Ragland of Dimmitt and Owen Drake of Friona.

Guards—Triplett and Leon Beasley of Tulia.

Center—Don Clements of Friona.

Backs—Richardson, Jack McClesky of Dalhart, Gary Bradley of Friona, and Junior Coffee of Dimmitt.

Defensive Team

Named by coaches to the mythical defensive team were:

Middle guard—Carl McEvers of Dalhart.

Tackles—Breitling, Ragland, and Ray Gaddy of Dalhart.

Ends—Ratcliff and Goetz.

Linebackers—Nester, Wear, Carlos Barnes of Dimmitt and Jerry Hyatt of Dimmitt.

Halfbacks—Richardson and Barry Walker of Dalhart.

Ratcliff Top Lineman

Ratcliff, 184-pound Dimmitt end, was named as the outstanding lineman in the district.

There were no honorable mentions or second team named by the coaches. When there was a tie vote, as there was in the choice of all-district linebackers, all were named to the team.

The Christmas season officially got underway in Canyon this week as members of the Chamber of Commerce put the finishing touches on the street decorations throughout the city. Tour of Panhandle Will Include Eight Farms in Randall County

A 173-mile tour of farms in the Texas Panhandle by Marvin L. McLain, assistant secretary of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, and federal, state, and local dignitaries on Thursday will include eight Randall County farms.

The tour, first of its kind ever held in Texas, will include only farms which have cropland under contract in the conservation reserve program.

McLain will be accompanied on the tour by some 125 area business and professional leaders, including 12 persons from Canyon.

To View Operation

Purpose of the trip, Doyle Thomas, office manager for the county Agriculture Stabilization and Conservation Service, said is to acquaint business leaders and other interested persons in the operation, purpose, and accomplishments of the government's soil bank program.

Randall County farms included on the tour include those owned by Mrs. Laura C. SoRelle, James M. Collins, Bailie E. McCormick, Charles V. Conatser and Wilson Brothers, Corrie H. Lowe, J. L. Markham, M. B. "Farmer" Brown, and Cecil Simms.

Stops are planned at the McCormick, Conatser and Wilson, Lowe, and Brown farms. Interviews are slated at the Conatser and Wilson farm and the Brown farm.

Allen, Rogers to Tour

In addition to McLain, Taylor Allen, southwest area director of commodities for the stabilization service, and Congressman Walter Rogers of Pampa plan to make the tour.

Several other federal officials are expected, but Thomas had not been notified by late Tuesday.

All agricultural agencies in the state will be represented on the tour, as well as the five-member state ASC committee.

Lloyd Heads Tour

I. H. Lloyd, head of the Soil Bank Division for Texas, is in charge of the motor trip. Lloyd has been assisted in planning the tour by Thomas, John Brazzil, county agent, and other Panhandle agriculture officials.

Canyon residents expected to make the tour include Charles Donnell, mayor of Canyon; Roland Black, executive secretary of the Chamber of Commerce; Levi Cole, president of the First National Bank, and A. C. Haley, Jr., publisher of The Canyon News.

Also slated for the tour are members of the Randall County ASC Committee, consisting of John Wieck, Kenneth Irwin, and Jack Cross, as well as the board of supervisors of the county Soil Conservation District, which is composed of J. W. Spencer, C. V. Conatser, Marshall Rockwell, and Frank Begert.

Begins at 8 a. m.

The tour will leave Amarillo at 8 a. m. Thursday from the Herring Hotel and will end about 5 p. m. at the Herring, Thomas said.

A mid-morning coffee break, courtesy of the Canyon Chamber of Commerce, is planned at the Brown farm, while lunch will be served at Boys Ranch.

A total of 14 farms will be seen by the group, although the chartered buses will stop only at seven farms. The buses will be unloaded at four farms for interviews with the farmers.

To Use PA Systems

Public address systems in the buses will keep those on the tour informed on the farms which they are passing.

Handling these guide chores will be Thomas, Brazzil, Joe Batson of the Soil Conservation Service, Foster Collier, office manager of the Deaf Smith County ASC, Gene Southall, Potter County agricultural agent, and J. R. Gill, assistant Potter County agricultural agent.

Four chartered buses will be used for the tour through Randall and Potter counties and portions of Oldham, Hartley, and Moore counties.

One farm will be visited in Potter County, two in Hartley County, and two in Moore County.

Story of Deaf Boy At BIT on Thursday

Opening performance of an original musical, "The Child and the Star," will be presented Thursday at 8:15 p. m. in the Branding Iron Theatre at West Texas State College. Additional shows are slated Friday night and Saturday at 2 p. m.

The show is sponsored annually by Alpha Psi Omega, national dramatics fraternity, and this year the program is a benefit, with part of the proceeds going to the Munday Foundation for pre-school deaf children.

Admission prices will be $1.00 for adults, 75 cents for junior and senior high school students, and 50 cents for children.

Story of Deaf Boy

Written by Avent Smith, Amarillo senior, the show utilizes the music from Tschaikowsky's "Nutcracker Suite," and is the story of a deaf boy who wishes a hearing aid for Christmas.

Smith, who is co-director with Marti Hinson of Groom, has also directed the choreography for the show's dances. Supervising the production will be William A. Moore, BIT director, and Robert L. Antrim, technical director.

Wheeler Takes Lead

Lead role of the boy has been taken by John Wheeler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wheeler of Canyon.

Other speaking roles are taken by WAM Moore and Mark Olson, two Canyon youngsters. Other Canyon children taking part in the show are Ricky Zeigler, Kay Nester, Becky, Debby and Melissa Wright, Chris and Janie Olson, John, Susan and Julie Brantley, John and Martha Harper, and Roger and Ricky Wilson.

Members of Alpha Tau Omega, men's social fraternity, will form a men's choir for the show, and also appearing as carolers will be the WT Madrigal Singers, directed by Royal Brantley, assistant professor of music. Brantley himself will appear as a troubadour. Mrs. Jess Barker of Canyon will be organist.

George Hinch Hired By City of Canyon

George L. Hinch is the new patrolman hired by the City of Canyon.

An error in last week's Canyon News stated that a George L. Hines was employed by the city. That name, however, was incorrect.

Coaching Is Still First Love Of Fired West Texas Mentor

Clark Jarnagin, dismissed last week as head football coach at West Texas State College, said he would like to continue living in Canyon, but admitted that coaching is his first love.

Jarnagin was fired last week by Dr. James P. Cornette, president of WT, after two dismal seasons as head coach of the Buffaloes.

"I'd like to express my sincere appreciation to the friends I have here for supporting me. I'm just sorry I couldn't do a better job," Jarnagin said.

Contract Up in January

The coach's contract expires January 16, 1960, but he said he would step aside as soon as he decided on something else so the college could hire another coach.

"I'll investigate any possibilities I have here before looking somewhere else," he said. "I like Canyon, my family likes it here, and I'd like to continue living here."

Jarnagin-coached teams at West Texas won two and lost 18 games in his two-year tenure as head mentor.

Beat N. M. State, Drake

Last year, Jarnagin's team beat New Mexico State, 39-32, in the final game of the year for the only win of 1958. The Buffs sank Drake University, 34-12, for the only 1959 victory.

Jarnagin was given a chance to resign last Tuesday but turned the opportunity down.

Dr. Cornette announced the coach's dismissal last Wednesday afternoon to Amarillo newspapers and radio and TV stations.

Accepting Applications

Athletic Director Frank Kimbrough is now accepting applications for the coaches job. He says the position is "wide open and it may be January before we find the best available man for the job."

CLARK JARNAGIN

Mentioned as possible successors to Jarnagin have been Chesty Walker, former Phillips High School mentor now assistant at the University of Washington; Joe Kerbel, former Amarillo High School coach now assistant at Texas Tech; O. A. "Bum" Phillips, now coaching at Amarillo High; Gene Mayfield, Borger high school coach; Tom Tipps, former Pampa High School mentor now assistant at the University of Washington, and Bill Ellington, former Tascosa High School coach now assistant at the University of Texas.

The contracts of Jarnagin's assistants hinge on the new coach's acceptance of the assistants. Jerry Johnson, Jackie Weldon, and Joe Brooks were Jarnagin's assistants, and their contracts also expire January 16, 1960.

Served Under Kimbrough

Jarnagin served as assistant coach to Frank Kimbrough until Kimbrough was moved up to the post of athletic director in 1958.

A center for Hardin-Simmons University, where he graduated in 1937, Jarnagin first came to WT in 1947. He went into private business the following year, but returned as a Buff assistant in 1953.

"I feel like I have a lot of friends in Canyon," Jarnagin said, "and I'm weighing the possibility of trying to do something else so I can stay here. But coaching is what I want to do most."

In This Corner . . .

An interesting scrap is shaping up in the railroad industry.

And if the American public isn't on its toes, it possibly could be the loser instead of the two forces which have squared off in the ring.

In one corner of the ring, we have railroad management, which claims that railroad labor is loafing on the job. Labor, says management, is "featherbedding," a practice designed by labor at management's expense.

Labor has sat demurely in the opposite corner until recently. It rolled with the punches—perhaps for too long a time. But now it has mounted its own offensive. That feather bed, says labor, is in reality a thorn pallet, designed by management at labor's expense.

Now that both adversaries are in the middle of the ring, it would be a good time for the public to examine them.

Despite management's record, it has built quite a case against featherbedding, pay for work not done or not needed. Cost of the featherbedding to the American economy each year, according to management's figures, is $500 million.

If labor would give the railroads "a fair day's work for a fair day's pay," then this burden on the economy of the nation would be considerably lightened, management says.

Obsolete work rules are responsible for the featherbedding, and the inflation which costs us $500 million a year, according to management. "Right now, for instance, these rules require every diesel locomotive to carry a fireman — even though diesels have no fires to stoke, no boilers to tend," a recent management statement declared.

Labor answers this last statement, saying the "fireman is as important on a modern railroad locomotive as a co-pilot aboard a sleek commercial airliner. In the days of steam engines, 100 cars were considered a big train; today, 200 cars are not uncommon, and the same conductor, fireman and brakeman are responsible for the safe and efficient operation thereof."

Labor places the blame for the inflation caused by the railroads at the door of management. Labor claims that the railroads are enjoying "fabulous profits."

Despite these profits, however, freight rates have remained the same, while passenger service continues to be reduced.

Railroad employees receive an average of $2.38 per hour, which labor says should be increased. Other conditions which should be corrected, labor says, are no differential in pay between day and night work; no sick leaves; no overtime pay; no expenses while away from home; straight-time wages for work on Saturdays, Sundays, and holidays.

Labor also claims that 230,000 employees of the railroads have been laid off in the past three years and "railroad management has no intention of calling them back to railroad service in any proportion to the upsurge in business activity."

No matter which side wins the fight, the American public will be the loser unless steps are taken by the government to guard the public.

If management wins and the labor force of the railroads is cut it might stave off any increase in freight rates. But that would give management a wedge in the future to discontinue additional passenger service because of lack of personnel.

If labor wins and the employee force remains about the same, then all railroad services are apt to cost the customer more money.

It might be too much to ask, but when Congress concludes its investigation into TV riggings and record payolas it might take a look at a situation that really affects Americans. (OG)

Grassroots' America

Presentation of 4-H awards here this week, for some reason, brought to our mind the continuous barrage of crimes which are daily attributed to our nation's "juvenile delinquents."

As we check over the scores of achievements of Deaf Smith County boys and girls, we inevitably contrast these attainments against stolen cars, store burglaries and occasional murders which are committed by their city counterparts.

We doubt if our boys and girls are basicly much different from those of the crowded cities. Their environment, on the other hand, has a tendency to guide them in a different direction. They are not exposed to so much temptation, perhaps, and the opportunity is always present for the farm youth or small town boy who wants to work.

People, especially boys and girls, are prone to be good instead of bad but, placed in the wrong environment, we feel sure that many of those youngsters who received recognition this week might have easily have gone in some other direction. This accounts for the situation whereby most of our cities are generally dominated by men and women who were reared on farms and in smaller towns.

Needless to say, we are proud indeed of the youngsters who received some 150 awards here Monday night. Most of our lives are dedicated to our children and to other children of the community, a fact which is testified to through our schools, recreation programs and career organizations such as 4-H and F.F.A.

When we compare the results with things which are happening in many other places, we are doubly convinced that the program is worthwhile — and that "Grassroots" America is still the best place in the world to rear our boys and girls. (Hereford Brand)

What Our Neighbors Say . . .

Scissor Snippings

Bill Neal in the McLean News: "The problem is we have too many First Streets," said City Manager Dan Mize as he smugly polished off a cup of coffee this morning.

"And for that matter too many Second Streets and Third Streets —and, yes, even too many Fourth Streets," he continued.

Dan was explaining the city council's plan to rename seven McLean streets and to name four for the first time. The city wants residents to suggest names for the streets, said Dan, but so far only confusion — and no names — has come of it.

"We want to emphasize that not all streets will be renamed," the city manager said.

"How many First Streets do we have in McLean?" we asked.

"Well, there's North First—and Second and Third — and then there's South First, Second, Third and Fourth in the McLaughlin Addition south of the tracks and then south of that there's another South First, Second and Third, you see . "

"You mean the South First just a little farther south of South First then?"

"No," he said. "I mean yes. You see the seven streets to be renamed are South First, Second, Third and Fourth south of the tracks in the McLaughlin Addition and then the First, Second and Third streets just south of the South McLaughlin Addi—"

"Oh," we said. "Yes."

"Now the four streets to be named for the frist time are the east city limit line road, the west city limit line road, the north city limit line road, and the offset section of the north lane of Highway 66 where it branches off the highway just north of the Deep Rock Station."

So there.

Catching his breath and another sip of coffee, he continued excitedly, "Now we hope people on these streets will submit some street names for consideration . . . "

And so we left him there on South First—or was it South, South First . . . All of which leaves a lot of people not sure what street they live on and us not quite sure what page we're on.

☆

Gene Alford in the Moore County News: Mother, shopping in a local super market (probably for Thanksgiving), this week was overheard telling her young son . . . "Go put that back . . . you have to COOK that."

Nancy Ezzell in the Canadian Record: Don't know about you, but we're having cranberry jelly as usual with our Thanksgiving turkey . . . and it won't be made with government certified berries. The furor over cranberries and the possibility that a small percentage of those on the market may have been sprayed with something which may cause cancer in rats if consumed in large quantities doesn't dismay me in the least. In the first place, of the 14 people who expect to gather around our festive board, none are rats. Some of us may make pigs of ourselves, in a polite way I hope, but even at that we're not likely to get enough of cranberry jelly to create a toxic condition. If we seem a little dull after the traditional feast, it will be from a slight overconsumption of cranberries plus turkey, dressing, gravy, and so on . . . not from cranberries alone.

I do appreciate the concern of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare over the sprays which are being used on the crops . . . whether cranberry, apple, lettuce, or beans. But the sound and fury over cranberries was surely out of all proportion to the danger. My sympathies are all with the poor cranberry merchants and the lean year which faces them.

Death Removes Colorful Figure From Public Affairs of Texas

By BOYCE HOUSE

The recent death of federal Judge James V. Allred removed from the stage of public affairs the most colorful figure of his generation in Texas. The former district attorney, attorney general, and governor was a marvelous campaigner man-to man and, in his era, was without a peer on the stump. It was my privilege to hear him many times and he was always eloquent and clever—equal to any situation.

When he was running for governor in 1934, I traveled in his campaign party for more than two weeks as a newspaper correspondent and none of the writers ever wearied of his speeches. Even though they covered largely the same ground each time, he was able to impart a sparkle and a freshness. An audience to him was an inspiration and it was a joy to hear him.

Judge Allred had a keen sense of humor and a spirit of fun. While he was governor, he was on the program of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce convention in Plainview. A group of newspapermen called on him in his suite and he asked, "What would you suggest I talk about?" Each of us in turn offered suggestions. He listened attentively, thanked us and, when he made his speech, never touched on a single subject we had mentioned! (He already had his address in mind of course when he asked for suggestions.)

In 1942, Judge Allred ran for the United States Senate and this columnist was a candidate for lieutenant governor. Each of us closed our campaign in Marine Park in Fort Worth. I was to speak until he arrived. When he got there I was in the middle of my remarks and he told the chairman, "Let him go on." The audience of 5,000 was proving very responsive—(after all, this was my home town). After six minutes more, my vigorous speechifying closed to cheers and a great honking of car horns. Allred strode across the platform, the first to shake my hand.

Some years later, when I spoke to the Houston Central Lions Club, Judge Allred conferred a great honor by introducing me. Not long afterward, he and Mrs. Allred entertained the members of the couples Bible class of which he was the teacher with a barbecue in the yard of their beautiful home in Houston. He had invited me to speak and, as the Lions Club speech had closed with a poem on Merriman cemetery, "the cemetery that was for sale," I used a different selection in order to spare the judge a second hearing.

At the conclusion, he expressed thanks, then added, "But I'm disappointed." No doubt, I looked dismayed. After a pause, he said, "Yes, I'm disappointed because our visitor didn't tell us the story about the cemetery during the Ranger boom. Won't you give us that one, too?" (Of course, it was done.)

For all his dramatic fervor when addressing a crowd, Judge Allred was modest. Only a few weeks after he had been nominated for governor, I saw him in Fort Worth, seated alone at the counter of the Texas Hotel coffee shop. And shortly before the date of his inauguration, I saw him one night strolling along alone, looking in Fort Worth store windows. When I stopped to chat, he spoke, halfruefully, of the host of office-seekers he had been encountering.

As time passes, men will tell and re-tell stories about him: how, because of principle, he gave up a lifetime position as federal judge to make a race for the United States Senate; how, in one campaign, he realized, after the first primary, that his choice for governor had no chance but he refused to leave the sinking ship and cam paigned even more valiantly for a hopeless cause; how, as governor, he challenged millions of dollars in his fight for the repeal of racehorse betting.

And in time, too, legend will interweave with fact and there will be such incidents told as the occasion when the young candidate, seeing a cemetery working in progress, stopped and introduced himself. Invited to speak, he knew that anything political would be inappropriate and so he gave an extemporaneous address upon Texas and its pioneers, their courage, their sacrifices and the eternal happiness which now was theirs, and the tears flowed down the faces of the stalwart farmers and of their sun-bonneted wives.

More About the Supreme Court

More About the Supreme Court

Because of considerable interest which was manifested and from questions which have arisen therefrom, I am reprinting one of my 1956 newsletters.

Where did it all start?

Few people have taken the trouble to find out the history of the doctrine which seems to be causing so much trouble today. That is, the doctrine that the Supreme Court has the power to declare an act passed by the duly elected officials of the people, to wit, the Congress of the United States, repugnant to the Constitution and therefore unconstitutional and of no force and effect, thus vesting in the Supreme Court the final veto power concerning the rules, regulations and laws by which our daily lives are governed.

It all started in 1801 immediately after Thomas Jefferson was sworn in as President of the United States. At that time the political parties were the Federalists on the one side and the Democratic-Republicans on the other side. The general philosophies of those parties were in keeping with the general alignments of thought as between Jefferson and Hamilton.

Tenets of Parties

The Jeffersonian doctrine was based upon a distrust of centralized government and the advocacy of confidence in the people's capacity to govern. The Hamiltonian philosophy supported a strong national government by a sort of "royal purple" group who would have full control of the centralized powers and be able to govern without interference from the people.

At that time President Adams was leader of the Federalists, while Vice President Jefferson was leader of the Democratic-Republicans. The Federalists had gotten in bad favor with the public and realized that they would be turned out of office in the December 3, 1800, election.

They were correct. Thomas Jefferson was elected president at that time and prepared to be inaugurated on March 4, 1801. The Federalists, in an effort to perpetuate their power, undertook between the date of the election, December 3, 1800, and the date of Jefferson's inauguration, March 4, 1801, to fill all open offices with Federalist followers.

Appointed Chief Justice

The number one appointment in this plan went to John Marshall, President Adams' Secretary of State and a loyal Federalist. He was appointed the third Chief Justice of the United States Supreme Court. There were a number of other appointments made by President Adams, among them being the appointment of a justice of the peace for the District of Columbia. The recipient of this appointment was William Marbury, who was appointed on March 2, 1801, just two days before Jefferson's inauguration.

In the confusion of the change of administrations, the then Secretary of State, John Marshall, signed and sealed the appointments, but apparently got busy on other matters and forgot to issue the commissions to several appointees, including William Marbury. Jefferson, upon inauguration, had instructed his Secretary of State, James Madison, to withhold the issuance of these commissions. Whereupon, Marbury filed suit against James Madison, the new Secretary of State, in the Supreme Court of the United States. Thus was born the famous case of Marbury vs. Madison, with which all students of the law are familiar.

Marbury vs. Madison

Since the Supreme Court's power to take original jurisdiction in cases is limited to a very narrowly defined class of cases, there was much discussion about Marbury having filed his suit in the Supreme Court rather than in a trial court. The filing of the case in the Supreme Court created a situation whereby John Marshall, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, was called upon to decide whether or not the court could compel James Madison, Secretary of State, to issue a commission that Chief Justice John Marshall, while serving as Secretary of State John Marshall, had neglected to issue.

Since the Marbury case was clearly outside of the original jurisdiction of the Supreme Court, the normal procedure would have been for the court to decline to hear the case and permit the complainant to file his suit in a proper court. However, for some reason Chief Justice Marshall brought into the picture the Judiciary Act of 1789, an act to control the procedures in federal courts. He indicated that, although the Supreme Court could not hear the Marbury case under the Constitutional restrictions, there were provisions in the Judiciary Act, a statute passed by Congress, that would permit the Supreme Court to hear the case.

He then proceeded to hold that, because according to his conclusions the Judiciary Act was in conflict with the Constitution, the Judiciary Act became unconstitutional and therefore void. This action on the part of Chief Justice Marshall has been interpreted as a master stroke of a devoted advocate to centralized government. It created the doctrine that the Supreme Court had the power to declare acts of Congress unconstitutional—power which was bitterly opposed by Jefferson's followers.

Marbury Wins, But . . .

Had John Marshall held against Jefferson's followers on the Marbury case and had entered a judgment requiring Madison to issue Marbury a commission, there was a strong chance that Marshall might have been impeached.

Many thought that Marshall realized this and thereupon conceived his idea of not endangering his position as Chief Justice, but at the same time, creating a strong weapon in the hands of advocates of centralized government. This approach left the Jefferson followers in the position of having won the Marbury case, for which they could not complain, but of having had to accept, as a thorn with the roses so to speak, the establishment of a doctrine that vested the Supreme Court with final veto powers on all legislative actions.

It is interesting to note that in the 35 years that John Marshall served as Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, he never again declared an act of Congress unconstitutional.

In Strange Position

It is also well to remember in this connection that as matters now stand, the laws passed by the duly elected officials of this land are in a strange position. These laws can be knocked down by the Supreme Court of the United States as being unconstitutional.

Yet, a treaty between this country and a foreign country, written and entered into by the executive branch of the government and duly approved by the Senate, is on a parity with, if not superior to, the Constitution. But in any event, as the law presently stands, the laws passed by the Congress are subservient to such treaties as well as the Constitution, so you can imagine how far down this puts the laws of the several states.

Bid for E-Way Work Accepted

A contract for two miles of construction on Highways 60 and 87 in Randall County has been awarded to an Amarillo firm, it was announced in Austin this week.

Gilvin-Terrill, Inc., submitted the low bid of $598,960 on the project.

Construction of grading, structures, base, and hot asphaltic concrete pavement from three miles south of Amarillo city limits to South 45th Avenue is expected to take 200 working days, according to Charles W. Smith, district highway engineer at Amarillo.

Byron Reese, resident engineer at Amarillo, will be in active charge of the project while it is under construction.

Fines Up to $1,000 Given Hunters Apprehended by Wardens at Night

AUSTIN — Illegal hunters this year have been fined maximum penalties in most cases when they get before the courts.

Earl Sprott, director of law enforcement of the Game and Fish Commission, has warned that wardens practically every night apprehend several jacklight hunters in the deer country. In most of these instances they have seized the kill, which is delivered to a charitable institution. The hunters are then taken before the county court, which now has jurisdiction in these cases.

Fines up to $1,000 each have been assessed in several cases within the last two months, according to the director. "Some hunters just simply don't seem to be able to stay on the right side of the fence, and do their shooting in daylight hours," the director said.

Some of them get away, but enough are caught to spread around the word that illegal hunting is very expensive. The courts in most instances have been levying maximum fines and revoking hunting licenses.

Game wardens this year have had exceptionally fine cooperation from other enforcement agencies, according to the director. In one case, city policemen looking for car thieves found illegal deer hanging in a garage. They notified wardens.

In other cases, a number of highway patrolmen have observed persons with illegal kills, or have heard shooting on the highway at night. They notified game wardens via car radio and in some instances arrests were made. Landowners also have assisted the wardens in apprehending night hunters and hunters who have made illegal kills of doe.

"Our wardens are very busy at this time of the year, but they are gradually cutting down on the number of violations. The courts have been very helpful in assessing maximum penalties for those who kill deer illegally," Sprott said.

Don't be a time-killer—time-killers have no market value.

Funeral Services Held for Mr. Cox

Funeral services were held Friday at 2 p. m. in Warren-LaGrone Funeral Chapel for Dorsie Earl Cox of Dumas, a former resident of the Happy area.

Mr. Cox, 79, died at 3 a. m. Thursday in the Dumas Memorial Hospital, where he had been a patient for a week.

Officiating at the services was the Rev. O. B. Harring, pastor of the Methodist Church in Memphis, assisted by the Rev. Clifford Trotter and the Rev. E. K. Shepard. Burial was in the Plainview Memorial Park.

A retired agent for the Santa Fe Railway Company, Mr. Cox was born November 2, 1880, in Arcanum, Ohio. A member of the Dumas Methodist Church, he moved to Dumas from Happy in 1953.

Survivors include his wife, Vinnie; a son, Howard Cox of Muleshoe; a daughter, Mrs. Martha Althouse of Springfield, Ill.; a stepson, James Ballard of Dumas; a step-daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth Byrd of Sunray; a sister, Mrs. Rosalee Bynes of Arcanum, Ohio; and a grandson.

Funny Bunny Runs for TD

Patter

Best wishes go to Mr. George Cristy and his family from Canyon High School. Mr. Cristy is now the business manager of the Seminole Public Schools. The faculty of CHS gave the family a sports coat at a party last Monday.

★

Congratulations Marla Free and George Loudder for being crowned Flame King and Queen. The senior class brought more wood to the bonfire than the other classes and earned the right to name their candidates for Flame King and Queen.

★

Homecoming at CHS turned out to be an unusual experience for everyone. Because of cold weather some very interesting plans were only partly carried out. The large eagle brought into Buffalo Bowl at the homecoming game was a remade float from the WT homecoming. The float, a gift from the Zeta Tau Alpha, was remade to look like an eagle. The homecoming queen candidates had planned to ride into the stadium on the float, but could not because of bad weather. Our thanks go to all the students who helped to rebuild the float and make such plans possible.

★

A funny bunny unexpectedly visited Buffalo Bowl after the football game between Canyon and Olton. The jack-rabbit jumped onto the playing field, ran the length of it, and ran out of the stadium to the surprise of fans who were leaving the game.

★

Congratulations Canyon Eagles for the wonderful football record you have made this year. We are all proud of our team and its work. Our attention is now turning to basketball, and we wish our team the best of luck in this phase of activity.

★

Advice is something an old man gives to a young man when he is too old to set an example.

A Chance Comes For CHS to Help

Now, CHS students, is our chance to help others! We have student teachers from WTSC in our classrooms for their training as well as for ours. They will be doing their best for us; therefore, we should do our best for them.

Before these student teachers reported to the various classrooms for duty, they met with Mr. J. E. Miller, CHS principal, for briefing on school practices. There are four teachers in the experimental program and four who are not in this program.

The teachers in the experimental program are Miss Jo Ann Ryan, Mrs. Wanda Van Vankenburg, Miss Ruth Massey, and Mrs. Dorothy Gill.

Miss Ryan is working with Mrs. T. E. Beard in teaching sophomore and junior English. Her hometown is Fashing, Texas.

Helping Mrs. Cecil Simms teach English is Miss Ruth Massey, who hails from Tulia.

Mrs. Wanda Van Valkenburg is teaching American history and United States government with Mrs. Dan Sanders. She is a Canyon girl.

Mrs. Dorothy Gill, also of Canyon, is teaching freshman English with Miss Mary E. Carter.

Under the supervision of Mr. Ray Wells is Leon R. Pepper, who is helping teach geometry and algebra. His hometown is Shamrock, Texas.

Learning to teach speech and English with Mrs. Lee Foster is Johnny Raymond. He comes from Sunray, Texas.

Mrs. C. C. Graham's help in teaching world history is Billy Schneider. Booker, Texas, is his hometown.

Mr. Bill West has help in teaching with Anthony A. Atherton, who is teaching general science and biology. He says he would also like to teach physical education. His hometown is Amarillo.

Five Players Place District

Canyon placed five players on the district team chosen by the district coaches November 24. No coach could vote for his own players.

On the offensive team Jerry Richardson, quarterback, and Billy Triplett, right guard, were chosen.

Jackie Breitling, right tackle, Chuck Nester, line backer, John Wear, end, and Jerry Richardson, safety, were chosen for the defensive team.

Jerry Richardson was also chosen as an outstanding back.

All Region Band Meets at Dumas

Fifteen Canyon High band members will try out for the all regional band in Dumas, December 3.

Students trying out for the band are Carolyn Franklin, David Perkins, Ann Guthrie, Mary Barger, Sandra Barger, Phillip Waters, Charles Wagner, Virginia Crounse, Pat Haley, Dorothy Higdon, Nancy Cleavinger, Dewayne Kiser, Lawrence Lewis and Weston Moore.

Tryouts will be held on Thursday morning. Rehearsals will begin Thursday afternoon and continue through Saturday. Saturday night a concert will be given by the regional band in Dumas.

A. Clyde Roller, director of the Amarillo Symphony, will be the guest conductor of the band, which will be composed of 100 students from the AA, B and A schools.

Turkey Trimmings

What will I wear? This is a none too new thing heard all the time. What you wear depends on the occasion, people, and time. Usually, everyone has enough clothes; they just don't seem to think they do.

School fashions for girls show a trend toward sweaters, leotards, and straight wool skirts. Clothes are worn casually and comfortable. The fuller skirts are not in style as much this year as last. The "saque-look" has almost disappeared.

Colors most prevalent are bright reds and oranges. Royal blue and cherry pink are running close. Also, a lot of green is being worn. Brown, blacks, etc., are being coordinated with the brighter colors. Results—a well matched outfit!

Boys are going for the black buck type shoes, some are wool or polished cotton slack, and the sweater trend has them too. They are wearing the sweater type vest and "v" neck sweaters over shirts.

Boys still wear boots, but only occasionally. Wool jackets or hood type coats are the most prevalent among the opposite sex. (Boys, we mean.) "No ties, please," one boy muttered in study hall. It seems ties make them uncomfortable during school hours.

The girls' hairdos seem to be looking feminine this year. The close cropped, "shaggy dog" is hardly seen. It has given way to longer, softer hair. A fluffy type or page boy is popular. The boys are also laying off the burr, butch, flatop, and crewcut. Could it be because of the weather, boys?

Manners: Essential In Social World

Mr. John Dallavaux of Rutland, Vermont, gave a talk on the importance of good manners to the CHS students in assembly November 16. Mr. Dallavaux is the author of the book, "How to Raise a Brat."

His talk combined common sense remarks with humorous anecdotes that kept students chuckling in the assembly. The main points he stressed are summarized here.

Manners are the measure of our ability to have the most fun in life without offending anyone. Any time we want to commit a crime, we should tell a trusted friend about our intentions, and we will not want to commit that crime any longer.

One of the things that is wrong with people is that we don't like to be corrected for our mistakes and wrong doings. We can profit greatly, if we use the corrections we receive from mothers.

Ninety percent of charm is happiness. Kindness is the highest gift of generosity. Respect is an important trait which we should develop.

There are two things which will help us to be successful in the social world. One is to do anything well and to the best of our ability. It is what we are that really makes us; therefore, we should at all times be trying to develop a desirable personality. We should also thank God daily for the many things we have, especially our sight and hearing.

During American Education Week the D. A. Shirley Club, Future Teachers of America made flower presentations in assembly in recognition of work concerning education. Receiving these awards were Mr. Bob Wear, representative of school and community cooperation, Mrs. Lee Foster, representative teacher, Mr.. J. E. Miller, principal, and Mr. Joe A. Gibson, superintendent. Beverly Richard, FTA vice president, and Bill Callarman, FTA president, presented the awards.

Thanksgiving is Over and Done Christmas Will Begin in 15 Days

Well, Thanksgiving has come and gone (for this year, anyway). Let us look back over the weekend and see how a few members of the faculty spent the long weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Gibson traveled to Springlake to visit with his brother and family.

Miss Mary Carter, English teacher, went to see many of her friends in Eastland, Texas.

Mr. J. E. Miller, principal, and his family traveled to Meridian, Texas, to visit Mr. Miller's sister and their friends.

Mrs. Lee Foster had a busy week end. She attended a family gathering near Claude and then spent the rest of the time grading papers and notebooks.

Miss Shirley Cherry, secretary to Mr. Miller, visited with her parents in Olton over the holidays.

The senior play cast probably had a busy weekend as Mrs. Foster had instructed them to learn their lines over the weekend.

The Eagle's Tale staff hopes that everyone had a delightful weekend and that you are now ready to work for a good third six weeks' period.

Remember, there are only 15 days until we are out for the Christmas holidays.

Lunch Line Cuts

We in Canyon High School pride ourselves on our good manners. Sometimes, however, it seems we do not all agree on what constitutes good manners.

One of the most glaring examples of bad manners in our school is cutting into the lunch line. Many students wait until the teacher on duty turns the other way, and then —wham—someone loses his place.

This isn't fair to students who wait in line and don't push and shove. Why should they give up their places to smart alecs? No way to avoid this has been found yet, except catching the "crook" in the act and giving him a detention.

But what of the others not apprehended? They'll continue to cut into line until a teacher catches them. Until this happens students will just have to put up with it or do something about it themselves.

Students CAN do something about it. Let those line crashers know you don't like it. If your disapproval is firm enough, there will soon be an end to lunch line crashing.

How About You?

Question: What would you do if you met an orthopter face to face in a long, dark tunnel?

Answers:

Jim Davis: "I would quickly take my daily dose of fermented aspirins and diluted cake coloring in order to keep my solid plutonium watch charm from being enlarged. Then with the oaken stock of my solid cardboard crossbow, I would make quick work of the orthopter's left nuetronical proctor. Then I would faint."

Karen Parker: "I wouldn't be scared 'cause I'm second toughest girl in school. Besides, Carolyn is first toughest and she's always with me; so I will hide behind her and let her fight it."

Nedra Fanning: "I would hide behind Carolyn also!"

Lavonne Patterson: "I'm not sure what I would do, except I know I wouldn't stay around there long."

Mike Cheatham: "Help, Mommie!!"

(Ed. Note: An orthopter is an object which uses a mechanical way of flying, such as a mechanical bird.)

Choir Club Holds Monthly Meeting

Twenty-four members of the Canyon High School Choral Club met November 12 at Sue Cheatheam's home for their monthly meeting.

After the order of business had been disposed of, refreshments were served and games played.

The club secretary, Marion Henson, urged that all Choral Club members pay their dues of 50 cents as soon as possible.

All Region Choir Holds Rehearsal

All State tryouts and All Region Choir rehearsals were held November 21 in the new Fine Arts Building at West Texas State College.

Canyon High School delegates are Marion Henson, first soprano; Judy Wheeler, second soprano; Sue Fain, first alto; Nedra Fanning, second alto; Bonnie Jo Whittington, first tenor; Jim Glenn, second tenor; John Wear, baritone; and Jimmy Killingsworth, bass.

Tryouts were held during the morning, and the All Region rehearsals during the afternoon. The eight delegates from each participating school gathered to rehearse for the first time for this year's performance.

The final performance will be held January 16.

Mr. Cristy Leaves Canyon High Staff

Mr. George Cristy, who has been in the Canyon School System since 1951, has accepted the job as business manager of Seminole Common Consolidated School District.

Mr. Cristy stated that this job is both a financial and professional improvement; otherwise he would not consider leaving Canyon.

A graduate of Wellington High School, Mr. Cristy, 35, also holds both the B.S. and M.Ed. degrees

November 23 a tea party honoring Mr. and Mrs. Cristy and their son, Craig, was held in the homemaking living room. Mr. Cristy was presented with a sports jacket, a gift from all the teachers in the Canyon schools.

Eagles Lost 50-43

Last week's game with Dumas kicked off Canyon High School's 1959-60 basketball season. Even though we lost with a score of 50-43, our team played a good game. The team, because of the prolonged football season, had only one practice.

Stair Hoarding Is Unthoughtful

Are you guilty of standing in the middle of the stairs or going up the wrong side? Yes! Then, my friend, you must be one of those stair hoarding students.

Most of us are, I'm sorry to say. We don't mean to be, but we are inconsiderate of our other schoolmates who need to use the steps. It would be a great time saver for the other fellow if we would go to a place where we would not block the passageway to do our visiting.

So may we suggest that we do as the Bible says, "Do unto others as you would have them do unto you." Don't be a "stair hoarder."

FFA Represents CHS at Dumas

Canyon High School's Future Farmers upheld the tradition of "the purple and white" by winning honors at the Amarillo District Leadership Contest in Dumas on November 24.

Canyon won a first rating in the Junior Farm Skill Division. Larry Moore, Darrell Rea and Glen Ray Metcalf composed this team.

A second rating was received in the Senior Chapter Conducting division. Members of this team are Joe Triplett, George Loudder, Henry Meyer, Jerry Ham, Lonnie Martin, Jimmie McAnarney, Wesley Bourn, Mike Moore, Walton Bagley, and Doug Bond.

Canyon received fifth ratings in the Senior Farm Skill division and Farm Radio. Orville Ladehoff, Albert Keller, and Harley Wesley composed the team in the Farm Skill division. The Farm Radio team was composed of Billy Martin, Jim Davis, and Robert Irvine.

Canyon's team, composed of Charles Evers, Robert Ham, Eugene Howard, Elo Myers, James Gouge, David Yarbrough, and John Cummins, won a seventh rating in the Junior Chapter Conducting division.

Mr. Ed Dwyer, FFA instructor, went with the boys on their bus trip.

Seventeen schools throughout the Amarillo District were represented in the contest.

Teachers Discuss Time Utilization

The effective utilization of teachers' time was the main topic of discussion at the November meeting of the Canyon Classroom Teachers Association.

Mrs. Alma Perkins was program chairman. A panel of four teachers—Mrs. Flora Phillips, Mrs. Earline Moreman, Mrs. C. C. Graham, and Mrs. Lee Gilmore—discussed the topic. Mrs. Perkins spoke on why the profession should be concerned about this.

"The Factors that Make for Effective Use of Teachers' Time" was the subject which Mrs. Phillips discussed. Mrs. Moreman spoke on what classroom teachers can do to make more effective use of their time. "What Administrators Can Do to Help Teachers Make Effective Use of Time" was Mrs. Graham's subject. Mrs. Gilmore suggested what professional organizations can do to help teachers use their time more effectively.

Mr. Ted Springer, member of the Texas Legislature, discussed, informally, legislative matters pertaining to school finance and teacher pay.

Refreshments were served before members began the discussion period.

University Interscholastic League Celebrates 50th Anniversary in '60

The Official Memorandum which follows was issued by Price Daniel, Governor of Texas.

GREETINGS: The University Interscholastic League was founded in Abilene, Texas, in December, 1910, and has been operated since that time as a Bureau of the Division of Extension of the University of Texas, Austin.

From this beginning, the Interscholastic League has experienced a continuous growth during the last 50 years, and presently sponsors competitions for Texas high school, junior high school, and elementary school students in music, number sense, debate, declamation, poetry reading, original oration, extemporaneous speaking, one-act play, ready writing, journalism, spelling, typewriting, shorthand, slide rule, story telling, picture memory, baseball, tennis, basketball, golf, volleyball, track and field, and football.

The University Interscholastic League last year had 2,450 member schools and almost 300,000 student participants, and ranked as the largest organizations of its kind in the world.

The 1959-60 school year marks the 50th anniversary of the Interscholastic League. This observance will culminate at the 50th Annual University Interscholastic League State Meet to be held in Austin on May 5, 6, and 7, 1960.

THEREFORE, I, as Governor of Texas, do hereby designate the week of December 6 12, 1959, as UNIVERSITY INTERSCHOLASTIC LEAGUE WEEK in Texas, and urge school administrators, classroom teachers, students and citizens to pay tribute to this organization which has provided 50 years of valuable and successful service to the public schools of Texas.

Dr. Ruth Lowes Heads P-TA Panel

Dr. Ruth Lowes acted as chairman of a panel which discussed "Our Schools in Action" at the November 19 meeting of the Canyon P-TA.

Mrs. Nancy Petruccione, Mrs. Charles Wright, Mrs. George de Schweinitz, E. R. "Dutch" Cleavinger, Hampton Lisle, R. L. Darnell, and Donald Briggs composed the panel. School outings, the physical fitness program, art and science in elementary grades, discipline in the room, and the teaching of reading were the topics discussed.

Dr. C. C. Callarman was in charge of the devotional, and Betsy Callarman sang "The Lord's Prayer," accompanied by Nancy Ross. Both girls are students at WTSC.

Mrs. Helen Fulton, vocalist, sang "Happy Talk" and "Bali Hai" from "South Pacific." She also sang "Wouldn't It Be Loverly" and "I Could Have Danced All Night" from "My Fair Lady."

Mrs. Alma Perkins, vice president, presided at the meeting, as Mrs. Dan Sanders, president, was attending the state P-TA meeting in Dallas.

Mrs. Raymond Raillard stated that the membership cards should be picked up as they are now available.

School VIP's

In addition to being the Homecoming Queen, secretary of the Student Council, and president of the Choral Club, Nedra Fanning is also one of CHS's vivacious cheerleaders.

Nedra lists her favorite color as blue, her favorite food as corn on the cob, her favorite actor as Yul Brynner, and her favorite record as "Scotch and Soda" by the Kingston Trio.

Nedra's favorite person is her big brother, Jim, and she could only think of, as her pet peeve, a person who talks too loud or too soft.

Born in Amarillo on December 7, 1941, Nedra moved to a farm four miles north of Happy when she was four years old. She lived there until she started to school in Canyon. She now resides at 2622 Third Avenue.

Dr. Lockman Gives Program

Dr. Earl Lockman, master escape artist, magician and cartoonist, assisted by his wife, Pearl, performed in assembly November 24.

Dr. Lockman began his act by performing card, scarf, money, and rope tricks. He closed by working his way out of a straight jacket and handcuffs.

Bill Cornette, John Wear, Jerry Richardson, Marla Free, Virginia Ransom, Glenn Devin, Tom White, Ronnie Hughes, and Jackie Breitling volunteered out of the audience to help Dr. Lockman in performing different acts.

Dr. Lockman has been a soldier, secret service man, adventurer, traveler, gourmet, lecturer, entertainer, cartoonist, musician, and magician. He has appeared in every major city in America. Most of the equipment used in the Paramount picture "The Life of Houdini" belongs to Dr. Lockman.

Girls Basketball Promises Much

The girls' 1959-60 basketball season proves to be as promising as that of the boys. Miss Alice Brotherton, girls' coach, has an excellent team this year.

Team members are Kay Boydstun, Jacquita Bernard, Marilyn Winn, Patricia Salmon, Kathy Hinger, Anita House, Barbara Erwin, Bonnie Jo Whittington, Nancy Purcell, Wilma Burkett, Linda Gazzaway, Wanda Bourn, Linda Phillips, Linda Troth, Mary Scruggs, Velda Oberst, Vinola Brewer, Lee Ruth Wiggins, and Vicki Weaver.

The girls are keeping the same schedule as the boys, with the exception of the Dumas and Hereford games when the boys play alone.

Students Boost Canyon Eagles

Students gave a loud send-off to the Canyon Eagles at the pep rally Friday before the game on November 20.

The bleachers in the new gym were filled to overflowing as Mr. James E. Miller kicked off the pep rally by presenting the district football trophy to the team captains, Chuck Nester, Tommy Henderson, and Jackie Breitling. Mr. Miller then read telegrams sent to the Canyon Eagles from many enthusiastic fans. After this he turned the pep rally over to the cheerleaders.

Three roaring yells were led by Nedra Fanning, Sally Jennings, Kay Boydstun, Kay Jarnagin, Judy Taylor, and Gloria Buchanan to boost the Eagles to victory.

The ball game was dedicated to the coaching staff, Coach Bill Davis, Coach West, Coach Kauffman, and to Carlton Patrick, a student teacher from the college.

At the close of the pep rally, everyone joined hands and bowed their heads when "The Lord's Prayer" was led by Mr. Miller.

School was dismissed early and at 1:10 p. m. the students, the cheerleaders, and the band lined up along the football field in the Buffalo Bowl to yell and sing the fight song.

The bi-district game was played against Olton.

Pat Haley to Run For State VIP

Pat Haley was nominated to run for state vice president of the Teen-Agers Library Association at the November meeting of the Loula Grace Erdman Library Club recently. The state meeting will be held February 27, 28, and 29 at Houston.

Pam Richards presented yearbooks which she had made. They contain lists of the officers, members and the program of work.

Dues were set at 50 cents per year.

The club discussed having their Christmas party at Barbara Whiteley's home.

As the guest speaker was ill, Sarah Ragle directed the recreation. Following this, refreshments were served.

Officers Elected At Science Club

Bill Callarman was elected president of the Science Club at a business meeting in the biology room of the high school last Monday night.

Clark de Schweinitz was elected vice president with Pamela Richard, secretary, and Tom Stone, treasurer. Reporter is Joe Whittington, Jr., and Kerry Knorpp is refreshment chairman.

The constitution was set before the members and several amendments were made. Refreshments were served.

Color Scheme Set At Teachers' Tea

Red and white colors and red roses set off a teachers' tea given in their honor during FHA Week. The table was decorated with red and white, FHA colors, and the centerpiece was red roses, the organization's flower.

The FHA were hosts to the affair. Swedish rolls and cookies with punch were served. The tea was given in the homemaking living room, November 5.

Mrs. Guylene Stover, homemaking teacher, said that everyone participated during FHA National Week in the best possible way.

Laid with an embroidered white linen cloth, the table was centered with an arrangement of red roses flanked by candelabra bearing white tapers. Arrow-pierced hearts with the names "Alby" and "Don" accented the tapers.

The names and the date were repeated on the white napkins.

Miss Ellen Latta of Groom, cousin of Miss Kuehler, gave some readings during the program. Recorded music was played in the background.

Assisting in the house party were Mrs. M. K. Moore, Gail and Earlene of Amarillo.

WT HAS MORE THAN COACHING NEEDS, FIRED MENTOR FEELS

By OSCAR GRIFFIN

Before Clark Jarnagin leaves the West Texas State College football scene, somebody should listen to his suggestions for improving the football situation.

It's taken for granted that the college wants a winning team—one that will fill and pay for Buffalo Stadium.

Jarnagin has taken his dismissal as well as any one could be expected to. (After all, a man isn't fired every day.) So I don't think it was sour grapes when he told of two things that the college needs in its athletic program if a winning football team is to be forthcoming for WT.

The needs cited by Coach Jarnagin are a red-shirt program and a recruitment plan to obtain junior college transfers. College officials can't solve the football problem simply by hiring a new coach, he feels.

There was no reason, but I had taken for granted that the Buffs had a good red-shirt program. Most colleges and universities do.

A good red-shirt program accomplishes at least three purposes. First, it allows the coach to hold out a player for an extra year of maturity, which can do a lot mentally, as well as physically, for a player. Second, a player who is not eligible to play can be retained on scholarship and can practice with the varsity, thereby adding a valuable year of instruction. (Most players who are not eligible and are not red-shirted never return to play football. Third, a player who is injured before the season begins and would be able to play only a game or two can be red-shirted, saving a whole year of football eligibility for him.

There are bound to be several other good reasons for a red-shirt program, but these three give a general idea of how valuable a red-shirt program can become to a football coach.

As for junior college transfers: West Texas had three on its roster this year. The University of Arizona had nine. 'Nuff said.

And before you get too rough with Jarnagin because his teams won only two of 20 games, just remember that it's been pretty tough on him. It's always tough when you don't win.

SOIL CONSERVATION DISTRICT NEWS

OUR SOIL ★ OUR STRENGTH

Do you enjoy having wildlife around the place? Would you like to have another source of income? This may be accomplished by providing areas for wildlife on your farm or ranch.

Wildlife areas have provided farmers and ranchers with additional income from the sale of hunting permits. Many farmers and ranchers enjoy having wildlife around the place, making it a more pleasant place to live, or for his own recreation and for his friends if he chooses. A plentiful supply of bird and animal life also helps maintain a check on insect and rodent pest.

If you are thinking about putting in some wildlife areas you may ask yourself, where should it be? You would want to take stock of your farm. Stand off and look at it, so to speak. Is it rolling land? Are there any gullies? Is it flat and clean right up to the fences? Are there any ditches or streams and do they have brush around them?

All of these questions should be asked before deciding what to do. On our most fertile areas we would not try to manager wildlife areas. The poorer soils which will not support a profitable agriculture can be diverted to wildlife areas. Vegetation for cover and feed can be planted for these places.

On rolling land, a farm "on the contour" will have a few odd areas too small to farm. When given some cover these areas are very good for birds. This cover can be made by having a brush pile, planting trees and other plants to provide food. A pile of brush is a way of getting cover on a location quickly where it is most useful.

Perhaps there is an uneven fence corner, a steep ridge in a field, a rock pile or gully on your farm that would do. Not only brush will do in these areas but old lumber and fence post will give a lot of cover until cover can be grown.

On more level fields, fence rows offer a very good place for cover. Multiflora rose has been used and has been found to be a good plant for this type of planting.

It is possible that some of these things can be done on your farm or ranch. For more information and if you would like to see some wildlife areas planted in this county you may contact any SCD supervisor or a technician of the soil conservation service.

Karen Sue Parker and Vernon Mickey Wed in Candlelight Ceremony Thursday

Miss Karen Sue Parker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Parker, Jr., became the bride of Vernon O. Mickey, son of Mrs. R. M. Mason of Plainview, in a double ring ceremony on Thanksgiving Day. Rev. H. Doyle Ragle, pastor of the First Methodist Church, officiated at the 5 o'clock candlelight service in the Joseph A. Hill Chapel on the West Texas State College campus.

Large floor baskets filled with bronze mums and bronze pom poms were used to flank the bridal party. Cathedral candelabra holding amber votive lights were arranged in an arch effect behind the altar. The bridal aisle was marked with aisle candelabra holding matching amber votive lights. A satin covered kneeling bench was used in the partaking of the sacrament at the end of the ceremony.

Mrs. Glenn Dowlen, organist, presented the traditional wedding marches and accompanied Mrs. Farrell Devenport, soloist, who sang "Because," "Whither Thou Goest," and "The Lord's Prayer."

Matron of Honor

Mrs. Donald B. French of Kansas City, Mo., cousin of the bride, was the matron of honor. She wore a ballerina length gown of emerald green pure silk organza styled with a Bertha collar and accented with a petite velvet bow with long streamers. Her headdress in matching color, was a feather clip with a matching circular face veil. She carried a cascade arrangement of bronze and gold tone mums and feathered mums.

Tommy Davis of Masterson, Texas, served as best man for his uncle. Sharing ushering duties were Donald B. French of Kansas City, Mo., and Lonnie Mickey of Dallas. Craig Parker, brother of the bride, was the candlelighter.

Bride's Dress

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride wore a ballerina length gown of Chantilly lace over tissue taffeta and net, styled with a scalloped sabrina neckline and long tapered sleeves. The very bouffant skirt featured a scalloped hemline. Her silk illusion veil was secured with a pearl and lace teardrop. The bridal bouquet was a white prayer book topped with a white Catteleya orchid with a cascade of white stephanotis interlaced with long satin streamers tied with love knots.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, 1200 Sixth Avenue. Alternating in the dining room were Mrs. C. R. Rule of Kansas City, Mo., Mrs. G. L. Rule of Pratt, Kansas, Mrs. Camille Wilhelmsen and Mrs. M. L. Parker of Independence, Mo., all aunts of the bride.

Travels to New Mexico

For a short wedding trip to New Mexico, the bride traveled in a gold wool fur trimmed suit with black accessories. She wore an orchid corsage.

Mr. and Mrs. Mickey are at home in Canyon where she is a senior at Canyon High School, and he is a sophomore at West Texas State College.

Out-of-town guests for the wedding were John C. Beagel of Indianapolis, Ind., Mrs. J. E. Beagel of Long Beach, Calif., Mr. and Mrs. Don French of Kansas City, Mo., Mrs. G. L. Rule of Kansas City, Mo., Mrs. O. W. Parker, Sr., grandmother of the bride, Mrs. C. Wilhelmsen and Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Parker of Independence, Mo., Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Cole of Pratt, Kansas, Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Davis and Jean of Masterson and Mrs. Marion Ford and Shirley of Plainview, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Mickey and Kim Mickey, and Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Mickey of Lockney and Milton Mickey of Lubbock.

LIPSTICK LOGIC
BY LOUISE ALLEN

Hobbies can make or break a home. If a woman resents her husband's enjoyment of sports that exclude her; if a man is jealous of his wife's absorption with knitting or club work, there's little happiness in it for either of them. It becomes a point of daily argument and friction. If each respects the other's enthusiasm, and sees in it a chance to develop his own hobby interests, then both have gained.

The world would keep right on turning without the thousands of ceramic ashtrays and miniature ships in bottles that hobbyists create. But unless they steal time or money that is needed elsewhere, hobbies provide an outlet that relieves monotony and gives a sense of accomplishment.

The woman who spends a tidy sum each Christmas season decorating artificial fruit with sequins must seem ridiculous to any man. She pays a lot for the dummy fruit, then covers it with another expensive material — to look like something it isn't! Luckily her husband takes pride in the novelty of her idea and encourages it. Crouching for hours in pre-dawn chilliness to kill a duck can look silly to a woman, too, if she doesn't hunt.

Not long ago we met, for the first time, two husbands whose wives have "gone far" in duplicate bridge. If you've never been indoctrinated with the importance (to the players) of duplicate, you may not know it's almost a dedication. These nice guys, one a banker who likes to fish and the other a cotton man who is a golfer, wouldn't know a finesse from a dummy. Their wives' hobby costs them plenty, in trips to tournaments and hiring baby-sitters. Yet they stood by admiringly as the women received trophies and the crowd's acclaim.

For a truly happy home, never, never admit you think the spouse's hobby is silly!
